Two Accomplices of English-German Caught by Police.

Ernest Schiller, of Clarence Reginald Hodson, the daredevil lone demon pirate of the seas, who captured the British freighter Matoppe, declared her a German prize, and turned soft-hearted and let her go again, will probably be arraigned before Federal Commissioner Houghton tomorrow charged with violating Section 238 of the United States Penal Law. This defines a conspiracy to commit robbery on a ship in waters under the jurisdiction of the United States.

Schiller's statement and those of two confessed accomplices—Otto Miller, arrested last night while he was visiting the cook in the household of Otto Gortz, opera singer, No. 230 West Seventy-ninth Street, and George Haller, chief on a North German Lloyd liner—Assistant United States District Attorney Knox believes, bring them under this law.

The accomplices deny they meant to carry out their agreement with Schiller and simply made him their dupe in order to get his money. They take the whole affair as a joke.

Their attitude has hurt Schiller's feelings. When the police told him that they had forged his name to a telegram to Miss Rose Gaboriau of Salem, Mass., asking for money, and that they forged it again to a receipt for a registered letter containing $60 sent by her, Schiller wrathfully declared he would proceed against them for grand larceny and robbery.

The name of the fourth man in Schiller's conspiracy to capture and sink the Cunard steamship Pannonia, after setting her passengers and crew adrift in the boats, is known to the police. Schiller kept it secret obstinately until he heard Detective Scully say to Capt. Tunney:

"Well, this fellow is no good to us; he won't keep his word and give us the only important name in the lot. Guess I better take him down to the British Consul."

Immediately Schiller, who has great fear of getting into the hands of the British authorities, gave the name. The police hope to arrest the man today.

This fourth man, Schiller assures the police, is not like Miller and Haller. He owned the motor boat by which the conspirators planned to board the Pannonia and never took money from Schiller. Miller was arraigned in Jefferson Market Court today and his case was put over until tomorrow, when Schiller will be arraigned. Haller was brought from Hoboken for arraignment at the same time.

Meantime Mr. Knox and the United States District Attorney for the Delaware district will decide just how to proceed against Schiller and his band.

Detective Lieut. Busby and other detectives and secret service operatives are searching for Schiller's suitcases. He told them he sold it to a junkman. They say they have found this to be untrue. When he took it from his lodgings at No. 129 Washington Street, Hoboken, it was very heavy. The police think it may be in a checking booth or a storehouse of bombs.

Complete information regarding Schiller came to the police today. His father is the head of the Vinsay-Voldstock Cotton Mills at Moscow, and is not separated from his wife, though she is now living in England with their two daughters.

Schiller, or Hodson, was educated at Eton and was dined by his father when he appeared at a banquet given by Mr. Hodson in Petrograd with a dirty tramp as an added guest, and made a nihilist speech declaring it was an honor to all present to sit down with one of the proletariats.

Schiller has two brothers in the Department of Communications of the Russian Army.

The detectives of the bomb squad made a discovery of a big blond man who was taken to Headquarters last night. They said he came from Buffalo, but would not admit that he was under arrest.

Schiller denies emphatically that Miller and Haller were not genuine full-fledged accomplices and are trying to fool the police. They knew all about his plans to take the Pannonia and of other plans which he has not told the police, he says. They were recruited by him because they were skilled mechanics and necessary to his plots and made many practical suggestions and worked hard in making preparations, he added. That they were dishonest and cowardly he is forced to admit.

District Attorney Swann took a hand in the piracy case today, on the ground that the four committed a crime against the laws of the State of New York by planning, conspiring and attempting with criminal intent to put high explosives aboard a ship tied to a Manhattan pier.

He had the men brought before him this afternoon, and will consult with Assistant United States District

EAST ORANGE, N. J., GIRL VANISHES IN SUBWAY; MYSTERY UP TO POLICE.

ALMA F. MYERS

Search is being made by the New York police today for Miss Alma Fuller Myers, twenty years old, and pretty, of the Orange district of New Jersey, who disappeared Saturday after boarding a downtown Bronx subway train at the Simpson Street station.

Members of her family made a vain search for her all of Saturday night and Sunday. Early this morning her father, Charles Myers, an insurance broker, with offices at No. 56 Malden Lane, went to Police Headquarters and asked that a general alarm be sent out.

"I cannot understand what has happened to my daughter," he said. "Unless she is a victim of amnesia. Her home life was happy. She had nothing to worry about. She had no suitors for whom she cared, and she was devoted to me and to her mother. Her nature was a care-free one, and in the neighborhood of our home at No. 56 Ellington Street, East Orange, she was known as 'Smiles'."

"My wife has been in a very nervous condition since the death by drowning last year of our son, Alma was greatly attached to her mother, and I am sure that, knowing of her condition, she would not remain away voluntarily."

Mr. Myers said his daughter had gone on Friday morning to have her teeth attended to by Dr. Gleason, One Hundred and Forty-ninth Street and Melrose Avenue, the Bronx, and from there went to the home of Mrs. Arox

Attorney Knox as to the best disposition to make of the case.

The Federal District Attorney for Delaware has showed displeasure over the fact that Schiller was removed from his jurisdiction. Assistant United States District Attorney Knox considers this well founded, and announced today that unless Judge Swann holds the prisoner here under the state law Schiller will be put at the disposal of the United States authorities in Delaware.

RODIN GIVES ALL HIS ART WORKS TO PARIS

Also Includes Hotel Biron, Where They Are Stored, to Be Used as Public Museum.

PARIS, April 3.—Auguste Rodin, the sculptor, has executed a deed of gift to the Government of the entire collection of his own works, other art objects he has acquired and the Hotel Biron, in which they are assembled. The building hereafter is to be open to the public as the Musée Rodin.

M. Rodin retains the studio, but the remainder of the extensive building and the fine grounds which surround it become public property under the supervision of the Government.

M. Rodin, who is seventy-six years old and one of the foremost of French sculptors, in 1912 offered to the state all his own works in his possession, the result of forty years' labor, including statues and sketches, and his collection of antique statuary, to be preserved in the historic mansion he occupies and to become a public museum after his death. For some reason he received no definite reply from the French Government. It was reported M. Rodin was greatly displeased and contemplated going to Rome to live.

MILE-A-MINUTE DASH COSTS FRANK MORAN $25

Caught at Corona While Going Some With Heroine of Movies.

A blurry blot that snorted down Jackson Avenue at a mile-a-minute clip startled Policeman Harry Shelley in Corona, L. I., at 9 o'clock last evening. He leaped to the saddle of his motorcycle and flew in pursuit. He did not catch the fugitive until it got tangled up among a flock of trolley cars at Woodside in front of the car barns. The thing proved to be a long, low racing automobile. Shelley handed a summons to the driver, who gave his name as Frank Moran, living at the Hotel Claridge, New York. A lady in the car said she was Pearl White, a movie actress and owner of the machine.

Frank Moran—for it was indeed he—was fined $25 to-day by Magistrate Fitch in Long Island City. Moran paid the money and departed, meantime performing a feat of self-denial and endurance never before done or even attempted by any other pugilist, viz.—

DENIES NOMINATION WAS OFFERED GERARD

But Ambassador Has Been Unofficially Asked to Consider Running for Governor, Says Osborn.

No offer of the nomination for Governor of New York has been made officially to Ambassador James W. Gerard, it was said to-day by William Church Osborn, Chairman of the Democratic State Committee. It was learned, however, that Ambassador Gerard had been informed of political conditions in this State and unofficially had been requested to consider acceptance of a nomination.

No official offer would be made to Mr. Gerard or to any one else, it was authoritatively stated to-day, without approval of the informal State convention, which is expected to be held this summer.

Arnold Nittel, No. 1130 Bryant Avenue. She spent Friday night and Saturday with Mrs. Nittel, who accompanied her to the subway station Saturday evening.

The young woman is 5 feet 4 inches in height and weighs 117 pounds. She has light brown, curly hair and gray eyes. She wore a dark blue cloth dress or dress, with red, white, blue and yellow braid; dark blue serge coat, with long waist and plicated skirt attached, dark blue straw hat, with red velvet around the crown and a bunch of cherries on the velvet; tan shoes and stockings and a green undershirt.

She carried a small tan dress suit case, and on her right hand wore a signet ring, with the initials, "A. F. M." and a black stone ring. On her left hand she wore a ring with three rubies. She also carried a blue silk umbrella.

Miss Myers was a member of St. Elizabeth's Guild of St. Thomas's Episcopal Church, Newark. The rector of the church, the Rev. J. C. Donnell, has asked the younger members to aid the search for her.

Her father, however, believes she is in New York. His one fear is that, suffering from a failure of her mental faculties, she may have fallen into evil hands.
